VOL. XVII. MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1920 No. 2

FAMOUS ARTISTS COMING HERE

N.Y. Philharmonics to Render First Concert in Exceptional Program

Winter Entertainment Course to Include Four Musicales and One Lecture

According to a complete announcement made yesterday by the Committee on Student Life Middlebury College will present a series of five entertainments consisting of four concerts by famous musical organizations and by individual artists of high rank and one lecture by Mr. Stephen Leacock, famous humorist, during the current year. By virtue of a substantial appropriation made by the Board of Trustees for this purpose, following the precedent of last year, tickets for the entire season which are to be on sale Saturday, October 16, in the Frost Pharmacy, will be offered at the rate of five dollars each.

In arranging a course predominantly musical the Committee on Student Life has been influenced strongly by consideration for Middlebury's location with respect to Eastern musical centers which provides small opportunity to hear leading musical organizations or individual artists of the day.

The selections made by the committee are without exception of the first order. It is an interesting coincident that "Musical America", a leading musical periodical, in the issue of September 4, features three of the four groups of artists who are to come to Middlebury during the winter.

The first concert of the series is to be given on November first by The New York Philharmonic Orchestra. Organized in 1842, this orchestra is the oldest organization of its kind in America and the third oldest in the world. Since its founding, it has given concerts every season without a break, postponing in all that time but one concert—and that at the time of President Lincoln's assassination. It has a record of solid achievement and sound progress. For ten years Mr. Josef Stransky has acted as conductor of the orchestra. The quality of his leadership is attested by the comment of the Cleveland Plain Dealer: "Mr. Stransky has brought the orcehstra to the highest point of efficiency it has ever attained in its long history, to a point, in fact, not surpassed by any rivals whatsoever." The touring orchestra which is to visit Middlebury on November first will consist of seventy pieces under the leadership of Mr. Strausky.

The second concert is to be given on December first by Messrs. Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, who have made for themselves a name prominent among Americans as interpreters of music for two pianos. Last June they won marked success at their appearance in Wigmore Hall, London. Of their performance there the London Evening Standard says: "The brilliance of their individual and combined technique, the perfection of their ensemble, not only in mechanics, but in thought and feeling also, the marvelous variety of tone they get from the instrument, and the deep musical feeling they put into all they played made the experience of hearing them an unqualified delight." During the coming season, in addition to a long list of recital engagements, they will appear with the Boston Symphony, New York Symphony, New York Philharmonic, Cleveland and Detroit Orchestras.

On January eleventh will be given

HULIHAN TO STAY AT MIDDLEBURY

'Varsity Pitcher Refuses Offers From Big Leagues and Abandons Plans to Transfer to Another College

Harry J. "Ike" Hulihan, for two years first string pitcher on Middlebury nines and many times the recipient of flattering offers from major league teams, has abandoned his intention of transferring to Colgate or to Syracuse as announced late in the summer and has returned to complete the two remaining years of his college course at Middlebury.

A strained ligament in his left arm restrained Hulihan from officiating in his preferred role of mound artist in more than two games during the spring season. Playing in company with Bower and Crippen, former Middlebury diamond stars, with summer resort teams in the Adirondacks however, his long string of wins, culminating in a no-hit no-run victory over 63rd Infantry on Labor Day while he was playing with Plattsburgh, drew much comment from up-state papers and ultimately resulted in his being offered permanent berths with the Champion Cleveland Indians of the American League and with the Boston Braves of the National League. Hulihan refused both giving as reason his desire to complete his college course.

Hulihan's sensational playing in and about his home town, Rutland, Vt., resulted in his being given a preliminary try-out with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Americans in the spring of 1918. This was repeated a year later when he twice made the circuit with the Athletics although participating in no games. Last spring he received an offer to go south with the New York Americans for spring training but declined acceptance.

"Ike" transferred to Middlebury in the spring of 1919 from Catholic University, Washington, D. C., where he distinguished himself the previous fall playing end on the eleven which represented that institution during the S. A. T. C. At Rutland High School where he prepared for college, Hulihan played four years on 'Varsity football, baseball and basketball teams.

Since entering Middlebury he has been a member of 'Varsity basketball

ALUMNI BANQUET NOW A CERTAINTY

L. B. Law Heads Committee of Five on Arrangements

President Thomas Hopes to Make Gathering an Annual Feature

Plans for an Alumni-Undergraduate banquet to be held in McCullough gymnasium Friday, November 12, the eve of the Middlebury-University of Vermont game which terminates the present football season, took form during the week with the appointment by Student Council of a committee of five and headed by Linwood B. Law '21, last year's baseball manager, to direct the affair. Appeals for attendance in the form of circular letters will be made in the near future to every alumni of the Men's College as well as non-graduates and members of the Board of Trustees. The committee will provide accommodations for all male undergraduates and from two to three hundred visitors.

When presented with the plans which were suggested at the Undergraduate Association meeting one week ago, President John M. Thomas expressed entire satisfaction with the idea. It is his hope that this form of meeting may become a permanent adjunct to the year's program at Middlebury.

The committee on arrangements, composed of Chairman Law, L. R. Bigelow, R. M. Sanford, S. P. Divis and M. E. Lee, all of the Class of 1921, met for the first time yesterday and concluded certain preliminary arrangements. President Thomas has accepted their invitation to preside at the banquet and numerous other men, prominent among the alumni and certain undergraduates will be invited to address the gathering. Miss Maude O. Mason, matron of Hepburn Hall and manager of the men's commons will have entire supervision of the provisioning.

No definite announcement has yet been made regarding the charge which will be made although the committee will endeavor to keep it below $1.50 per individual. It is also their intention to provide additional attraction for the succeeding afternoon by arranging with Student Council and the Sophomore Rules Committee to stage the Freshman-Sophomore Hat Scrap or Freshman Parade at that time.

NEW YORK ALUMNI TO SEE WEST POINT GAME

Reception Planned for Football Men Following Stevens Game

New York, Oct. 5.—Plans for holding the Fall Smoker of the New York Alumni Association of Middlebury College in this city on the evening of Oct. 23 were discussed at the regular monthly dinner of this organization tonight at Stewart's Restaurant, 30 Park Place. Middlebury plays Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken on that day and an effort will be made to provide a reception for the team by local alumni. Members of the New York association are planning to attend the Middlebury-West Point game Saturday.

Following is a list of those attending the last dinner of the association: L. M. Seely '95, L. W. Severy '00, I. Wilds '02, L. F. Hovey Jr. '04, W. R. Wheeler '08, I. V. Hagar '09, H. D. Leach '10, R. C. Ryder '10, G. E. Shaw '10, F. C. Ryder '11, C. R. Lee Jr. '17.

SPRINGFIELD TIES MIDDLEBURY 0-0

Visitors Recently Defeated Bowdoin 27-0

Blue Gives Evidence of Much Strength; Gollnick Injured

Special Announcement

By an agreement concluded with Manager R. S. Noonan of football The Campus has arranged to supply college residents with accurate and detailed accounts of each of the four remaining out-of-town games during the present season within a few hours of the conclusion of each game. The information will be received in code form and will be transmitted to an illuminated bulletin board in The Campus office.

Coming confidently from an overwhelming victory over Bowdoin the week before, the heavy Springfield Training College team left Middlebury Saturday with nothing but a goose egg to carry home and the knowledge that they had been up against an eleven which, though out-weighed 15 pounds to a man, played a fighting, rip-tearing game of football every minute of every quarter and nearly carried off the bacon itself. Saturday was an ideal day for football, the slight cross-wind interfering but little with the punting games which both sides were forced to resort to after repeated failures to gain through the line. Springfield threatened once in the first period with an attempted drop-kick from the 37-yard line but the kick went wide and they did not get within the danger zone again during the game. Middlebury succeeded in reaching the Springfield 35-yard line but the angle was too great for a successful drop and the ball was lost on the next play. Leonard was slightly distanced by Watson in the punting game but got every kick off well and credit goes to Monayhan as well for the clever passing game he put up at center on the punt formations.

Middlebury won the toss and elected to receive. Leonard ran the ball back for twenty yards. Three plunges at the Springfield line gained but three yards and Middlebury punted. The visitors failed to gain and punted. Drost was penalized for crawling in the next play. Gollnick failed to gain and Middlebury lost the ball by a fumble, after five yards through tackle and an incomplete forward pass, the visitors failed in their attempt to drop kick. Middlebury was offside on the second play and was forced to punt again. Springfield failed to gain but Middlebury fumbled again and the quarter ended with the ball in Springfield's possession.

In the second quarter the visitors lost the ball on downs, Brigham and Mead throwing the man for losses on the first two plays. Ashley made the first down of the game on the next play. Middlebury failed to gain and Leonard punted. Gollnick was hurt on the play and Lobo replaced him. Springfield punted on the third down. On the following play Springfield received a penalty for being offside. Drost and Leonard each gained three yards. Drost failed to gain and Middlebury punted again. Springfield returned the punt. Lobo and Ashley gained three yards and Leonard punted again, Ashley making a good tackle on the play. Monayhan broke through

EDITORIAL

Is It Worth While?

In tendering its unqualified endorsement to the projected Alumni-Undergraduate Banquet, November 12, the eve of the Middlebury-University of Vermont game, the Undergraduate Association has committed itself in a manner that bespeaks progressiveness. The project has a purpose that is considerably more than to provide an occasion for eleventh-hour cheer practice. It is aimed to counteract and to eliminate a contagious social malady, a foe of progress in this institution, which has lately affected the great majority of its graduate body. That malady and that foe of progress is indifference.

The banquet is not original with the Undergraduate Association nor with Middlebury College. A dozen years ago similar class functions were numerous and equally as popular. They were the means of developing a strong class spirit and thrived through a period of years; then, coincident with the growth of the College, with increased popularity of the "movies" together with a revival of the dance craze, they died an unnoticed and unlamented death. At Amherst, Wesleyan and Williams, institutions which have much in common with Middlebury, the Alumni Banquet or Smoker has long been a drawing feature of the close of each football season.

To revive a forgotten custom, to rearouse latent loyalty will require an extra exertion of effort on the part of those charged with responsibility for the affair. Their way will in many respects be that of the trail blazer, their path will be lined with pit-falls of lethargy. But their efforts will be aided by the enthusiasm which springs from a successful season of athletics such as the present one gives every indication of being. It is athletics that will provide the inspiration of the occasion,—athletics and hoped-for victory. There will be speeches, short and to the point. Undergraduate will hear the unfamiliar voice of graduate which talks more often through newspapers, magazines and letters than from the platform in McCullough Gymnasium. Student will hear the voice of coach and faculty-member, non-athlete will hear the voice of athlete. In short, there will be hitherto unparalleled exchange of views by representatives of every interest related to Middlebury College.

Is it worth while? Will two hundred and fifty alumni be amply rewarded for spending the week-end of November 12 and 13 at Middlebury? It is more a question if, in fifteen years, they will be content to have had a hand in leading this college out of a wilderness of dis-organized and mis-directed loyalty into an open and unbounded field of opportunity. If then they will not be, Dud Drake can not be content with his reward, the everlasting gratitude of Middlebury's undergraduate body, won by spending seven days with the football squad, the seven days preceding the Middlebury-University of Vermont game, one year ago.

Faculty and Student

The relation between the faculty member and the undergraduate is a topic which is due serious consideration at all times, and especially at the opening of the college year. Middlebury has been at an advantage in establishing intimate relations between the administration and student body on account of the comparatively small enrollment. But as the entering classes become larger it is increasingly difficult to foster such an intimacy.

A professor is not a mere automaton instituted to inflict upon his hearers a tedious succession of fact and formulas.

A professor is a personality and only in accepting him as such may a student obtain the greatest value from classroom and campus associations.

The customary reception for freshman men and women by the upper classmen was replaced this year by a faculty reception. The affair was characterized by informality of spirit and was accepted as highly successful both by entertainers and their guests. Met in such a manner, the freshman must acknowledge that his or her instructors may be regarded as not in the least formidable, even though rumored to be possessed of a somewhat superior grade of intelligence. It is therefore our opinion that such an affair, accepted as an annual college function would be of mutual benefit to student and instructor.

Finally, our advice to freshmen is—Become acquainted with your professor and—let your professor become acquainted with you!

A son was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Hovey Jr., 58 Ellenton Ave., New Rochelle, N. Y. Mr. Hovey is a graduate of Middlebury with the Class of 1904.

The Periscope

We are reminded of Pledge Day, the First, Oct. 7.

"Button, button, who's got the button?"

Why not elect a manager and in conjunction with the coeds draw up a schedule of pledge days?

Prof. Abbott's generous promise to provide legal aid in practical problems "pro gratis, free for nothing" to his business law students reminds us rather strikingly of Miss Beatrice Fairfax's kindly and helpful suggestions appearing daily in Mr. Hearst's worthy journals.

From Ye Annals of Olde Middlebury

Excerpts from The Undergraduate of 1882

"During the summer vacation it was rumored that the Freshman class was to be the largest for some years. We know not to what cause to ascribe the non-fulfillment of the rumor, but for some unaccountable reason only nine have, as yet, (Oct. 1882) made their appearance."

"There is some talk of a dancing school for students this winter."

"The rhetoricals last Saturday morning were omitted to give the students time to recuperate after their late supper."

"Lyon, '85, who went to New York found the bustle of the city so conducive to his temperament that he decided not to continue his college course."

"There is a rumor that Senator Battell intends building a new opera house in town."

"Thos. W. Flint has obtained a patent for an improved fire escape to be put in railroad cars."

The Campus might have saved the announcements of nuptials printed in last week's issue and collected them for an extra to be run in competition with The Matrimonial News.

"Jimmie" Hartness having received the Republican nomination for governor of Vermont, The Periscope takes up the bludgeon in his behalf and confidently predicts his election.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The Periscope welcomes all contributions from amateur "colyumists", reserving, of course, the usual publisher's rights.

The new styles for men give the college the atmosphere of a golf school. Inasmuch as there are no links at Middlebury we would respectfully suggest to the "powers that be" that a golf course be added to the curriculum.

In response to numerous inquiries as to the meaning of the w. k. abbreviation "w. k." we feel that we must enlighten our readers that in "colyuming" these initials are used instead of "well known."

Scout Number 3-11-46, stationed at Schenectady, N. Y., reports in The Concordiensis that Donovan advertises "Brogues for sale". If there is any variety we would prefer Donovan's genuine Hibernian.

We note that our self-styled "Social-Sophomore" has folded his tent like the Arab and as silently stolen away, without first telling us just what a "Social-Sophmore" is.

In desperation we suggest one who majors on the hill and minors at Calvi's.

COMMUNICATION

The Value of German

Trinity College, Oxford.

The Editor of The Campus,
Middlebury, Vt.,
Sir:—

I am sorry to see that many American colleges and among them Middlebury, are dropping the study of the German language and literature from their curriculum, or making it give way to Spanish or Russian. This is, I believe, a serious error. In my own school (Literae Humaniores) I have found it necessary to learn to read German in order to keep up with the ordinary work of the school, as the greater part of my reading, outside the Greek and Latin languages is done in that language. My History tutor gives assignments regardless of the languages. When I first told him I didn't read German he said: "Of course you can get on without, but if you want to be anything of a scholar, you must read German".

A fellow Rhodes scholar, now living with me, is working for a doctorate (D. Phil.) in Organic Chemistry. Without a fluent knowledge of the German language he would be helpless.

The truth of the matter seems to be—and it is recognized here—that while much is written in other languages on all subjects, the Germans are still above all others in gathering together all that is known about a given subject, and allowing you to draw your own conclusions from the gathered evidence.

For anyone who must draw conclusions, and not merely accept those of others, a knowledge of German is indispensable. Its literature, too, is akin to our own in depth and richness, and this is more than can be said for the literatures of some of the substituted languages.

T. Kenneth Penniman '15.

Editor's Note: In publishing the foregoing communication from a Middlebury graduate now studying abroad The Campus wishes to correct a false impression which appears to be that of the author. Middlebury College is this year offering two courses in German, one for beginners and one in Modern Prose, under Professor Everett Skillings, recently returned from a year's study in Germany and elsewhere in Europe.

KALEIDOSCOPE SOON TO RELEASE CONTRACTS

Junior Photographs Will Be Taken Within Two Weeks

With details of reorganization of the 1922 Kaleidoscope board completed, R. H. Whitney, editor of the college annual, and his associates have turned to the work of releasing contracts to printing and engraving firms and to gathering photographs and other data for the book. P. M. Ross, business manager of the year book, returned to college last week and is enrolled in the junior class.

H. J. Fitzpatrick, directing the photographic work, is arranging sittings for the entire junior class at the Gove studio within the next two weeks. Half-tones of athletic teams and certain organizations are being assembled. The management has issued a call for photographs to be incorporated into the class book. Suggestions will be made at a later date for drawings to be used.

As yet no announcement has been made of the appointment of faculty adviser. Following is a complete list of board members: R. H. Whitney, Editor-in-Chief; M. C. Dickinson, Asst. Editor; P. M. Ross, Business Manager; J. M. Sullivan, Asst. Business Manager; H. J. Ratti, Advertising; W. R. Cole, Athletics; H. J. Fitzpatrick, D. Ashworth, Photographic; K. A. Brautigam, D. M. Douglas, Literary; R. L. McArthur, Organization; A. Ladd, Nonsensia; H. M. Woodruff, Social; R. M. Hall, Art.

FRESHMEN ENTERTAINED BY COLLEGE FACULTY

Pres. and Mrs. Thomas Attend Novel Reception at Pearsons Friday

One hundred and fifty members of the freshman class were entertained by the faculty of the college at an informal reception, Friday evening, from eight until ten o'clock in Pearsons social hall. Miss E. S. Ross, Dean of Women, welcomed the guests, and President and Mrs. J. M. Thomas received.

During the evening President Thomas explained the traditions of Gamaliel Painter's cane, and sang the verses of the song while all present joined in the chorus. Another pleasant feature of the evening was a piano solo by Professor L. J. Hathaway.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served to the one hundred and fifty guests by senior women.

Near the close of the party Middlebury yells for "1924" and "faculty" came from the upperclassmen assembled outside of Pearsons, adding to the spirit of good cheer and fellowship which the evening had fostered. A snake dance in front of Pearsons hall in which first-year men participated ended the party.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT LIKELY THIS FALL

Plans for a fall tennis tournament to be carried out among the men of the four classes in college are being formulated by Acting-Dean L. I. Bonney and G. D. Rothermel '21, Manager of Tennis. Decision as to time and manner of drawing for places has been withheld for the present but will be announced in a subsequent issue of The Campus. An effort will be made to obtain a large number of entries. Applications, for the present, may be made through Manager Rothermel.

TWO-DAY HOLIDAY STARTS FRIDAY

Faculty and Student Body Will Spend Week-End at Bread Loaf

Undergraduates Will View 30,000 Acre Battell Park

Middlebury College will enact the spectacular and incidentally stage an unbeatable advertising scheme Friday and Saturday of this week, when barring unfavorable weather conditions the entire college body will migrate to Bread Loaf Inn, Ripton, the seat of the English Summer School and part of the 30,000 acre Battell Park belonging to the College, for a two-day outing. This novel departure from college routine was announced yesterday by President J. M. Thomas following the completion of preliminary arrangements by a Committee consisting of Acting-Dean L. I. Bonney, Miss E. S. Ross, Mrs. M. O. Mason and Mrs. Kate Mills. A canvass conducted yesterday morning among the faculty and student body forecasts an attendance of from 375 to 400.

Departure from Middlebury, contingent upon favorable weather, will be made between eight and nine o'clock Friday morning. The ringing of the college chimes at seven-thirty will definitely announce the decision of the committee to hold the holiday. The party will return to this town late Saturday afternoon.

Silent Cliff, 4 miles from Bread Loaf Inn, an elevation of about 2500 feet, will be visited Saturday morning as will be the Lodge at Lake Pleiad, also a part of the college owned tract and situated on the Long Trail.

Entertaiment will be under the direction of Prof. P. C. Voter and Miss Marion L. Young, Women's Physical Director. The catering is to be under the supervision of Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Mason.

SEVERAL CHANGES MADE IN CAMPUS BOARD

Adams '23 Becomes News Editor; New Candidates Begin Work

Several important changes in the editorial staff of The Campus for the coming year were announced at the weekly meeting of this body Thursday afternoon. Murray Adams '23, last year elected to the position of Associate Editor, has become permanent News Editor for the Men's College while K. A. Brautigam '22 has been named Intercollegiate News Editor, a post established last year in fulfillment of the paper's obligations to the Eastern Intercollegiate News Association of which it is a member. The other appointments made last spring notably those of L. H. Brown '21 as Athletic Editor and Miss Ruth B. Johnson '21 as Women's News Editor will hold during the ensuing year, the only other change being the selection of W. Cohen '21 as head of the department of exchanges.

Try-outs for positions on the editorial staff commenced Friday afternoon when fifteen candidates, members of the three lower classes in college, attended a brief lecture on methods given by The Campus in Old Chapel. The contests will continue under the direction of the News Editors for a period of two months at which time twelve elections will be made to the editorial staff, six being named from each college.

Successful Informal Dance

The first informal dance of the season was held at the McCullough Gymnasium last Saturday evening. The College Orchestra, consisting of Fitzpatrick, Bishop, Prescott, Ashley and LaFountain, furnished music for seventy-one couples. Prof. and Mrs. Abbott and Coach and Mrs. Brown were chaperones.

BASKETBALL MAY BE DROPPED

Lack of Funds Ties Up Tentative Schedule

Plan to Sell 300 Season Tickets Likely of Adoption; Brown Heads Council

The question of the advisability of the continuance of basketball as a major sport was considered by the Athletic Council at its first meeting of the college year, Monday evening in Old Chapel. The committee showed reluctance to drop basketball from the list of 'Varsity athletics but due to the refusal of the Board of Trustees to make appropriation for this sport was unable to accept the schedule submitted to them by Manager William Cohen pending action by the student body. Arthur M. Brown, Physical Director of the Men's College was elected President of the Council, succeeding Professor Phelps N. Swett, for six years head of this body, while Professor P. C. Voter and George T. Whitmore '21 were named vice-president and secretary, respectively.

A plan submitted by Manager Cohen for the sale of three hundred season tickets at two dollars each met with some favor on the part of the Council It is expected that the matter will be introduced at the next regular meeting of the Undergraduate Association.

G. M. DARROW CHARTER K. D. R. DIES

Was With Dept. of Agriculture; Graduated Here in 1910

George McMillan Darrow, charter member of the Kappa Delta Rho Fraternity and a graduate of Middlebury College with the Class of 1920, died of tuberculosis Sept. 5, at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Mr. Darrow was born Feb. 2, 1889, in Springfield, Vt., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Darrow. He prepared for college in Chester, Vt., High School, entering Middlebury in the fall of 1906. In 1910, following his graduation from this institution with the degree of A. B., he undertook post-graduate study in Cornell University, school of Agriculture where he was granted a master's degree. From there he went to Washington, D. C., to become scientific assistant in the Department of Agriculture which position he later resigned to enter the employ of the International Bank Corporation in New York with which he was connected at the time of his death.

Mr. Darrow was the author of several bulletins on fruit cultivation while with the Department of Agriculture, also an article on "Raspberry" in the Standard Encyclopedia of Horticulture. He is survived by his mother and three brothers, William, Herbert and George. Burial was in Salem, N. Y.

MATH INSTRUCTOR MEETS CLASSES

Hollis G. Cooley, Middlebury 1920, an instructor in the department of Mathematics who has been confined for nearly two weeks with blood poisoning, affecting the knee, has recovered sufficiently to permit of his attendance at class appointments. His position has temporarily been filled by Acting-Dean L. I. Bonney, also Assistant-Professor in that department.

FIRST PLEDGE DAY OCCURS TO-MORROW

Two Fraternities to Offer Bids; Rushing Ends To-night

Tomorrow is Pledge Day in the Men's College. According to the rules for rushing and pledging which were in effect last year and which two fraternities, Alpha Sigma Phi and Kappa Delta Rho, have announced their intention of observing this year, rushing by these two bodies will end this evening at 10 o'clock and shortly afterward sealed bids will be deposited with Chairman V. C. Harrington of the Interfraternity Council. These bids will be received by new men tomorrow morning by mail delivery and answers in order to be valid must be returned by three o'clock in the afternoon.

Actual pledging will be observed by the two participating fraternities following their receipt of accepted bids. It is expected that all buttons will be out by five o'clock.

As yet there has been little in the present season of nature distinguished from other years. Each of the five fraternities has indulged in considerable entertaining which, according to three of the national fraternities, was necessary in order that they might become acquainted with members of the incoming class.

GOLLNICK RECOVERING FROM SATURDAY'S INJURY

Albert T. Gollnick '22, fullback on the 'Varsity football eleven who sustained a severe sprained ankle in the second quarter of the Middlebury-Springfield game Saturday expects to be able to attend classes in a few days. An X-ray examination taken by Dr. H. L. Averill Monday revealed that no bones had been broken but it is feared that Gollnick will be unable to resume his position of the first team until the Stevens game, two weeks from Saturday.

Repairs in Painter

The office of acting Dean Bonney has been moved to North Painter Hall, into the old Kaleidoscope Office, while the room formerly occupied by the Dean is now used as the Registrar's office. During the summer, the interior of the hall has been repainted and the rooms repapered.

Betsey Buttles Tea House

STUDENT RULES
1920-1921

Seniors must not visit the Tea House any morning after twelve, or any afternoon before twelve-one.

MANY STUDENTS ELECT NEW DEBATING COURSE

Established at Request of Wetherell Club; Trains for Winter Contests

The debating course offered by the college authorities to stimulate interest in debating is being conducted under the direction of Professor Davison and has interested a number of students.

This course was established at the request of the members of the Wetherell Debating Club, who felt that the college should present some course to undergraduates to interest prospective debaters and additionally to make available to members of the debating club a course of study which would be of real value in preparing for debates. Professor Davison, who assisted in coaching last year's debating team, and who had charge of their preparation in delivery was selected to direct the course. He has arranged to give students in this course the fundamentals of argumentation, and along with the study of the theory of debate, time is given for work in extemporary and prepared debating in class room. Though this course is scarcely a week old students have shown much interest in it, and it promises to be one of the popular courses of the college. It is not intended to restrict the debating material to students who are taking this course. It is merely given to aid those interested in debating.

Students who are not familiar with this course, and who are interested in it are urged to get in touch with Professor Davison.

the third musical program, a recital by Reinald Werrenrath. Mr. Werrenrath is undoubtedly one of the leading American baritones. He has gained an enviable reputation as a concert singer which his successes with the Metropolitan Opera Company have enhanced. Last season besides numberless recitals he has to his credit eight orchestral appearances. In fact he sang four times in three days with the New York and Philadelphia Symphony Orchestras, twice in Philadelphia, once in New York, and once in Brooklyn. He also sang with the New York Symphony in Washington and in Baltimore and twice with the St. Louis Symphony. He had eleven appearances in New York besides his operatic season at the Metropolitan. This last summer be gave two recitals in Owen's Hall, London, and one in Paris.

The last of the musical series will be a concert by the Flonzaley Quartet on February twenty-fifth. It is no exaggeration to say that the Flonzaley Quartet sets the standard in America, if not the world over, for the performance of quartet music for stringed instruments.

Stephen Leacock, the noted humirist is scheduled to appear here on December fifteenth. Mr. Leacock has been called "The Canadian Mark Twain". Literary critics rank him with the foremost humorists and satirists of the day. There is a delightful vein of keenest irony in practically everything he writes. He is a real humorist. His books have that same fascinating atmosphere of genuine fun that characterizes the works of the beloved Clemens.

Stephen Leacock, in private life, is a college professor. He heads the department of economics and political science at McGill University. He is a Canadian, a graduate of McGill, and also holds an honorary degree from the University of Chicago as well as from Dartmouth College. His literary efforts have been widely read in book form, and his magazine contributions have appeared in practically every one of the leading American magazines during the past ten years. He has spent a great deal of his time on this side of the border, and many of his writings, which are lively clever satire on modern social and political conditions, take their "color" from Broadway, N. Y., Washington, D. C., and other great centers of the nation. Among his books enjoying widest circulation might be mentioned "The Hohenzellerns in America", "Further Foolishness", "Behind the Beyond", "Nonsense Novels", "Literary Lapses", "Arcadian Adventures With the Idle Rich", and "Essays and Literary Studies".

A. T. Larsen Meets Violinists

Alfred T. Larsen of Burlington, Vt., recently engaged as instructor in violin for the current year conferred with four students who have elected this study, Friday afternoon in Music Hall. Beginning this week Mr. Larsen will spend every Thursday during the school year in Middlebury.

Asked if he had any plans regarding the formation of a college orchestra, Mr. Larsen declared that he would be very glad to assume the responsibility of directing such an organization but that no definite move in this direction had yet been made to his knowledge.

Prof. Lambert at Alabama

Professor A. E. Lambert, formerly attached to the Department of Biology at Middlebury, has accepted a position as professor of anatomy in the medical College of the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa, Ala. His wife, formerly Miss Irene L. Adams '18 has been spending some time with her parents in Rutland, Vt., and will leave soon to join him in Alabama.

the line and threw the quarter for a loss. After an incomplete pass, Springfield punted. The half ended with the ball in Middlebury's possession.

The Blue received in the third quarter and Lobo ran the ball back twenty yards. Leonard and Ashley gained four yards and Leonard went outside of tackle on the next play making first down by an inch. Middlebury uncorked a forward pass on which Brigham made a spectacular catch gaining fifteen yards. Middlebury failed on two attempts through guard and Springfield intercepted a forward pass. Middlebury recovered the ball and the quarter ended on her 37-yard line.

In the last quarter Springfield recovered the ball on a fumble but was forced to punt after Potratz broke up an attempted forward pass. Leonard recovered the ball and ran it back 25 yards being knocked out on the play but did not retire from the game. Middlebury gained five yards but was forced to punt on the fourth down. On the second play Keppler broke through the line nailing the speedy Watson, who carried the ball on the play, for a loss. Springfield made first down in the next play refusing to accept the penalty for Middlebury's being offside. Springfield opened up a series of passes, two of which were incomplete and the third Captain Mead intercepted. Leonard punted and Springfield made first down by a forward pass and line plunge on the next two plays. Springfield failed to gain by repeated forward pass attempts and an exchange of punts followed. The game ended with the ball in Springfield's possession in mid-field.

President Thomas Speaks at Vespers

At the vesper service last Sunday President J. M. Thomas delivered the address. He spoke of the Four Doors or Opportunity,—the door of success, which opens to any person who works hard toward a fixed goal; the door of service, that is open to the man who can do his greatest service to the college by being a good student; the door to hardship, which comes to everyone, sooner or later, no matter how sheltered his life may be; the door to character, which is within the power of each individual and can be opened by him in spite of all conditions.

Proficiency Prizes Announced

Encouragement to students working their own way through college has been announced by President Thomas through the form of prizes to such students attaining the highest marks in the college year just begun. Fifty dollars each will be awarded to the man and woman securing the highest grades, and twenty-five dollars to those ranking second. Students earning at least half of their college expenses will be eligible. The donors of these prizes were prompted to offer them through observation of students working to meet their college expenses during the summer session.

squads for two seasons and was last year honored by the sophomore class of which he was a member, by election to presidency. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity.

"SYNCOPATORS" SUCCEED BRACKETT'S JAZZ

New Musicians Meet With Favor at First Informal

The Middlebury Novelty Syncopators, successors to Brackett's Jazz Orchestra made its inaugral appearance at the first informal of the college year Saturday evening in McCullough gymnasium. The Syncopators, composed of Fitzpatrick '22, violin, Bishop '22, piano, Ashley '23, banjo-mandolin, Prescott '22, banjo and Davis '21, xylophone and drums, were received with much enthusiasm.

W. H. Fitzpatrick, temporary-manager, announces that the organization has a long list of advance bookings in this and near-by states. Arrangements have been completed with the local post of the American Legion to furnish music for its regular dances. As in previous years the orchestra will probably accompany the Glee Club on its annual tour of the state.

Three late registrations were announced at the office of the Registrar Monday. They are: Roland J. Darby, '21, president of the Undergraduate Association and captain of the 'Varsity track team last spring; E. Chester Franklin '21, Newbury, Vt.; and Roger T. Hall '22 of Readfield Depot, Me.

Ex-'23. J. Dexter Walcott Jr., of New Britain, Conn., has entered Harvard University.
